CARL TOBIASSEN NAMED FOURTH'S GRAND MARSHALL

Preparations for the Fourth of July celebration are moving forward. At a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce quarters, in the Elks building Tuesday night the work done, was reviewed and work to be done was assigned to various committees. Attorney Frank G. Finnegan, general chairman, presided.

Judge Raglan Tuttle resigned as chairman of the literary committee as he will be out of town on the Fourth. He expressed his purpose to help the committee in their preparations. E. J. N. Ott, of the decoration committee, stated his feature will require $65 and work will begin on the decorations this week. The sports committee reported that their program is well outlined.

Carl J. Tobiassen was appointed Grand Marshall of the parade..

Lieutenant Waldo Telfer, of the CCC camp, reported that their float is in the process of construction.

Fred E. Conner, of the parade committee, reported that the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce has promised a dozen floats at least from that community.

One of the most interesting features will be the Goddess of Liberty float. The resplendent float will be drawn by a team of dappel gray horses in gala array. The horses will be lent to the committee by Bob Gates.

Yesterday the decoration committee put up the decorations and flags for the coming event, and Nevada City now presents a gay appearance.

Wyoming Tribe of Red Men, of Nevada City are to parade in full regalia and have invited other tribes to enter.

The Native Daughters of Grass Valley, have sent word they are to enter a float in the coming event. A group of 15 young ladies have volunteered to decorate the big truck.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars have received their colors and expect to dedicate them the fourth.

Nevada City Parent Teacher Association has planned an attractive float for the coming parade.

DINNER GIVEN IN YOUNG'S HONOR

Will Durbrow presided Wednesday night at a dinner tendered Former Governor C. C. Young, candidate for the Republican nomination, which was given in the Bret Harte Inn in Grass Valley, and attended by members of the Business and Professional Women's club and many friends and supporters of the candidate.

The former governor told of how the surplus of $31,000,000 was accumulated by the simple process of keeping expenses of government below its income. This surplus he stated was lost by excessive expenditures on the part of the legislation and the administration which followed his, when as a matter of good business management retrenchment was imparative.

He declared that throughout his term of four years he had never made a political appointment. All his appointments were conditioned upon merit, the ability to fill the job.

Will Durbrow as a boy was a student under Former Governor Young, who became a teacher shortly after graduating from the University of California.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

A motion for a new trial was made by the defendents before Judge Raglan Tuttle on Tuesday in the case of E. C. Allen et al, vs. Olivia J. Myers involving a deed to real estate in Grass Valley, which was tried several months ago and a decision rendered by Judge Tuttle in favor of the plaintiffs. The motion was denied.

C. E. CLINCH TO DEFEND $50,000 DAMAGE SUIT

The date of the trial of the $50,000 damage suit against C. E. Clinch filed by Joseph C. Glennon, of Nevada City, has been set by Judge Tuttle for July 12. Glennon is suing for injuries suffered by himself and Mrs. Glennon when Clinch's car crashed into theirs head-on on the Glenbrook curve just below Town Talk.

FETE MARKS END OF FUND DRIVE FOR ST. MARY'S

A large gathering of friends and patrons of Mount St. Mary's is promised Saturday evening at Lake Olympia, when there will take place the awarding of prizes won in the campaign for raising the debt on this venerable and useful institution in Grass Valley.

There will be a program of excellent music, and, beginning about 9 o'clock, dancing in the lake pavilion.

For the convenience of those who have no other means of transportation, the Grass Valley-Nevada City bus will make a trip to Lake Olympia on Saturday evening, June 23. The bus will leave Grass Valley at 7:30 from its regular station and will leave Nevada City at 7:45 from its regular station here. The return trip will be made at the convenience of the people.

The musical program and entertainment is under the direction of Mrs. William J. Sproul, who for the last four weeks has been training the little tots who are to take part.

ZEIBRIGHT MINE IN BIG PROGRAM OF DEVELOPMENT

The Zeibright mine, it is reliably reported, is launching on a large program of development. The property is in Bear Valley and is owned by the Newmont company.

Grading for a mill site is going forward at a rapid pace, and the Nevada County Lumber Company was recently given a rush order for two carloads of lumber for surface buildings. The mill capacity, it is reported, will exceed 500 tons daily.

It is indicated that the camp will employ a large force of men and will be operating at full capacity this fall.

WALLS OF SWIMMING POOL ARE HALF POURED

Rapid progress is being made on Nevada City's new swimming pool, under the direction of Contractor Y. C. Soda. About one-half of the cement for the walls has been poured.

In several places there are broad, even niches in the cement, over which strong metal ladders will be placed. The cement, a very high grade, is opured over steel reinforcement rods, in wooden molds covered with cotton-seed oil. The oil helps produce a smooth finished product.

Every effort is being made by the contractor to give Nevada City the very best in swimming pools.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO MARCH IN S. F. PARADE

Nevada Commandery No. 6, Knights Templar, will join with other northern California commanderies in forming a parade division in the grand parade when the grand encampment of the Knights Templar of the United States meets in San Francisco on July 7-13. Twenty or more members of the Nevada City and Grass Valley section will participate in the full parade dress.

Report Indicates Long Prosperity Era

A higher price for gold, forecast on authoritative information received by the Nevada City Nugget in time for Monday's issue, and a wage increase for miners of approximately 10 per cent, these are the developments of the week which presage a long period of uninterruted prosperity for Nevada County.

Errol MacBoyle, president of the Idaho Maryland, declares that the wage increase is predicated upon the expected rise in the price of gold to $41.34, which he is confident will take place in the near future.

The declaration of wage increases by the Idaho Maryland and by the Newmont company's subsidiaries, will practically govern wages to be paid throughout the district.

This is the highest wage paid miners, with but few exceptions, in the United States. It is nearly a $1.00 a day higher, on the average, than in other mining communities along the Mother Lode.

The best part of the new is that it sweeps the clouds out of the sky as regards labor disputes. It is altogether likely that Nevada county will hear no more about wage increase for a long time to come.

The new rate posted by the Empire-Star Mining Co. Ltd., took effect as of June 16.

The announcement by the Empire-Star closely followed that of the Idaho-Maryland firm. The Empire-Star has made two payments of $50 bonus checks to its employes during the last six months.

The Idaho-Maryland increased the wages of muckers from $4.25 to $4.75 a day and for miners from $4.75 to $5.25 a day. The Empire-Star scale shows a greater variation in the classification of workers but the majority of those employed will receive $5.28 a day.

The Empire-Star Company operates the Empire, North Star and Pennsylvania mines in the Grass Valley area, the Murchie mine, near Nevada City, and the Zeibright mine, in Bear Valley. The Idaho-Maryland Company operates the mine of that name and the Old and New Brunswick mines in the Grass Valley area.

Increasing interest is manafested through the Mother Lode in all mining properties and prospects. Almost daily truck loads of mining machinery and equipment are observed along the highways. Activity in gravel mining shows a decrease due to the seasonal lack of water for sluicing.

In making the compilations for the monthly table showing mines in operation, the number of men employed, and the average earnings of the miners, the computation is raised to $130 per month for all classes of employes, excepting of course the directing heads. This increase it is believed is ultra conservative and shows total earnings of those employed in Nev. county of $259,740 for total employes number 1098 men.

RELIEF HILL MINE

Relief Hill gravel mine has just closed down for the season and it is understood they had a very satisfactory clean up in nuggets, coarse gold and fine flakes. C. E. Clarke, superintendent, is in San Francisco and plans are being made for next season's hydraulic operations.

CHAMPION TAILINGS

The dredging equipment installed at great expense is being shut down at the Champion mine tailings, west of Nevada City. It was found the gold was too fine to be handled by that method. Anderson and associates of Marysville were in charge of operations.

IDAHO-MARYLAND MINES

A tunnel is being driven from the Idaho-Maryland ground to the old C. C. Mitchell property on the 1,000 foot level in order to develop the latter property. A power boring machine is to be tried out on the property with a view of sinking a new

MAJORITY OF JAIL INMATES ARE THERE FOR DRUNK DRIVING

The population of the Nevada county jail at the moment consists of six men. Of this number three are serving time for drunken driving, and one is waiting trial on this charge.

Louis Mordal is serving a sentence of one year for this offense, Elmer Johnson six months, and Carl Curry four months. Elmer H. Branch, of Truckee, is presently to be tried for drunken driving.

Branch and his companion, missed District Attorney Wright's car by inches, and wrecked their car against a power pole, conveniently across the street from the jail.

PRINTER PUPIL ASKS DAMAGES

J. B. Underwood, instructor in printing in the Grass Valley high school, and the Grass Valley school board, were defendants in a damage suit which came to trial yesterday in the Superior Court. The suit was brought by William Fry, formerly a student in the Grass Valley high school, who asked damages as a result of having his fingers crushed in a platen press.

W. E. Wright was attorney for the defense and Oscar Winburn for the plaintiff. John B. Truscott foreman for the Grass Valley Union composing room and William Kervin, printer of the Nugget staff, testified respectively for the defense and plaintiff.

It appeared from evidence offered that quads had been used instead of gauge pins, that paper had slipped down, as a result of this use, and that Fry had received three crushed fingers when he reached after the slipping paper and failed to withdraw his hand in time: Both sides charged negligence. Judge Tuttle took the case under advisement.

CITY WEARS GALA DRESS FOR 4TH.

E. J. N. Ott, chairman of the decorating committee for the Fourth, is out with his assistants dressing Nevada City in gala attire.

There are many flags and streamers up over the streets and evergreen trees are to be placed at each post in the main streets by the end of the week. They will also decorate the big live Christmas tree at the entrance to Nevada City with bright lights, making the city pretty by night as well as by day.

DRUNKEN DRIVER TO SPEND YEAR IN JAIL

Louis Mordal, pleaded guilty Tuesday in the Superior Court, to a charge of drunken driving. The charge of hit-and-run was dropped. Mordal waived time for passing judgment, and Judge Raglan Tuttle sentenced him to a year in the county jail.

TWO HUNDRED BENEFIT BY MORATORIUM ACT

County Recorder Sam Clark states about 200 "intentions to hold" on exemption of assessment work have been filed so far.

About the same number of mine owners have filed assessment work completion also.

There are only a few more days until July 1, the last date the intentions to hold filing can be recorded on unpatented mining property.

C. C. YOUNG IS GIVEN HEARTY WELCOME HERE

Former Governor Young was a visitor in Nevada City Wednesday afternoon meeting old friends and acquaintances. He was pleased by the hearty welcome given him by residents here, many of whom assured him that they were backing him in his candidacy. Time after time it was recalled to him that Nevada county four year ago gave him a nearly a two to one vote over the combined ballot of his two competitors in the race.

Governor Young was accompanied by J. B. Hall and Robert G. Alderman, his field representatives, and his daughter, Miss Barbara Young, with him particularly to see this historic mining country of the Sierras. Her sister, Miss Lucy Young, Junior at Stanford University, has just completed in a seminar course a complete account of John Marshall's discovery of gold. Her essay received very favorable mention from the faculty and it is considered one of the best pictures of the discovery of gold in California. Miss Young went to original sources for her information, having access to the library of the Society of California Pioneers of San Francisco. Important among her references were Bigler's Diary and The Journal of New Helvetia in which General Sutter made memorandums of the events of the momentors years of the gold discovery and excitement.

Discussing the gold mining industry, the former Governor said:

"Gold mining, California's pioneer industry, must be given every safeguard, protection and encouragement. To date, the gold yield of California, at the old rate of $20.67 per ounce, has amounted to over $2,000,000,000, with nearly one half of that enormous sum produced in the Mother Lode counties.

"Improved methods and the increased price of gold, $35 per ounce, have combined to increase the value of our California gold bearing areas, with particular reference to the sections embracing the great Sierra Nevada mining area.

"The increased value to these areas is considerably more than the percentage of difference between the old price of $20 per ounce and the present government regulation of $35 per ounce, for the increase in the value of gold makes possible the profitable working of from three to our times the amount of gold bearing tonnage, which, in turn, prolongs our mines and assures a long period of prosperity for our mining towns and communities.

"The Bureau of Vital Statistics at Washington, D. C., presents the interesting fact that mining, as a business, is less hazardous in so far as failures are concerned than commercial enterprises.

"The value of mining, so far as our state goes, is not by any means restricted to gold mining, important though that industry is. Commercial minerals are of great value and are practically inexhaustible. They abound on the Mother Lode.

"History attests to the richness of the Mother Lode. The present production of its mines still proves its value and the future will bring returns beyond our expectations.

"The continued development of this great industry, which is now adding hundreds of additional workers to payrolls and bringing prosperity to many communities, must be our primary concern.

"The State's mining regulations should be given a thorough study in light of this renewal of mining activity with the view of making adjustments where necessary that will tend to promote still greater activities in this pioneer industry."

Miss Irene Glennon is spending the summer months in Sequoia with relatives.

CARNIVAL DANCE AT YOU BET SATURDAY

The dance to be held at You Bet this Saturday evening, will be the biggest event to take place since the opening of the large new hall a few weeks ago. Because of increased patronage and the insistent demand for a dance every week instead of every other week, as in the past, the management has made arrangements to hold dances every Saturday evening the balance of the summer.

In celebration of the change of dance schedule, there will be a special Carnival Dance this week featuring free balloons, confetti and serpentine. Door prizes and a prize waltz, which will be features every Saturday for the balance of the season, will be inaugurated this week. Music will be furnished by Kenny Gray's Six Mad Music Masters.

The road leading to You Bet and the new hall, turns off the Grass Valley-Colfax highway just east of Peardale.

A. M. HOLMES

Nevada County Coroner—Offices in Nevada City and Grass Valley

Perhaps never before in the history of the county have the people given so much thought to the caliber of the man who will hold public office as well as their proved personal attributes and capabilities that would indicate how well they would hold their respective offices after being selected. This is true of the people of Nevada county, as it is of the nation. A. H. Holmes's constructive administration of his own private affairs and business has gained him a hearty regard and the respect of his colleagues, because his career as a citizen has been helpful and conducted in a sound and business-like manner. He has been indefatigable in his efforts to give the interests of his fellow citizens the best that is in him and his policies have been so manifestly honest and above board that he has won the plaudits of all, regardless of partisanship. It is such men who merit well at election time, for the day has passed when men are selected for office as a personal favor.

SCOUT CUBS TO CAMP AT PAHATSI

Preparations for Cub and Scout camp at Kilborn Lake, Camp Pahatsi, received a boost last week end from 36 Eagle Scouts, friends and parents, who went to do work on some camp improvements. A picnic lunch was served at noon. The oil house is now in its permanent location, ground was cleared for the prospective handicraft and museum building, and road work was done. W. L. Holmes, of Roseville, and Dick Ebbert, of Auburn, have been making additional improvements during the past week.

Cub camp, for boys 9, 10, and 11 years old, will be held July 1st., to 8th. Registrations have already come in, assuring a camp, from Roseville and Colfax. A maximum attendance of 60 is expected from the Tahoe Council including Lone Cubs. Special Cub "beanies" for camp are being presented cubs as they register for camp.

The daily program will change each day and will include regulation camping routine, nature instruction in birds, insects, and flowers, instruction in swimming, fishing and a wide variety of games, including baseball. Leagues will be formed between the various camp Dens and championships decided.

Camp fires will he held outdoor and also indoor in the big lodge. Since fire crackers are taboo in the National Forest, they cannot be taken to camp, but some fireworks such as small sets, roman candles, colored fire etc., will be set off on the float in the middle of the lake, on the evening of July 4th. Each Cub will be allowed to set off his own only at that one place. No syrockets will be permitted. It will be a lonesome week at home for "Fido" waiting for his "pal" to return from Cub camp, since dogs are not permitted in camp.

Scout camp of three weeks will follow the Cubs and will start July 8th.

That Second Verse

The glorious Fourth is near at hand,
And soon the girls and boys
Will cast their dignity aside
And make a joyful noise;
Myself will drag the fiddle out
And bang the grand pianner—
I wish I knew the second verse
Of The Star Spangled Banner.

I learned the first verse when in school,
And still without reserve,
I sing it after many years
With confidence and verve;
But when the second one is tried,
Confusedly I mutter,
And, till the last note dies away
I stammer and I stutter.

I wonder why my brains refuse
To hold that stirring verse;
It quite eludes my mental grasp
As I its lines rehearse;
A pal of mine once sang it through
In proud exultant tone;
But at the end he found that he
Was singing all alone.

A man I know forgets the tune,
And once when bands were playing
Sweet Adeline, he stood right up—
But then, as I was saying,
I'd like to learn and then retain
In some progressive manner
Each line of that most gallant hymn,
Our Star Spangled Banner.

A. MERRIAM CONNER.

STORK BRINGS DAUGHTER

Born: At the Nevada City Sanitarium, June 17, 1934, to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Spencer, a daughter.

Mr. Clyde Dourghty, of Nevada City, left Tuesday for the Eagle Bird mine, where he has accepted a position with that company.

CAMP CELIO TREE HOUSES DELIGHT CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Tree houses and Uncle Toby's stories stand out as the most interesting activities of the Gold Rush session at Camp Celio, camp of the Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda Camp Fire Girls on Lake Vera. Under the direction of Gladys Snyder, Oakland-Berkeley Camp Fire executive, the camp is divided into three groups. Sugar Loaf for junior girls, Harmony Ridge for intermediates, and Kalo for the seniors. Each camp group has its own program adapted to the needs of the campers.

During the past week Theodore A. Harper, chairman of the National Camping Committee and known among Camp Fire campers as Uncle Toby, has supervised the construction of two tree houses in Harmony Ridge. One of these houses will accommodate four, and the other three, occupants over night. Each is reached by a rustic ladder of native wood. There is not a bent nail in the houses, the Gold Rush campers say.

At evening fire on his first night in Camp Celio, Uncle Toby was presented with a "story stick" by the youngest girl in camp. This is the traditional way at Camp Fire Girls' camps of asking him for the first story. On this night and the two succeeding nights of his stay at the camp his stories became something to be remembered. Behind him Uncle Toby left a watermelon treat which was greatly appreciated.

Other Gold Rush projects include construction of fire rings at Rough and Ready, the building of trails to Rough and Ready and the Dipper, and the making of the special Gold Rush bandanas. Rough and Ready is the new primitive camp, situated on a hill top in back of Kalo where the entire camp enjoyed a cook-out. The Dipper consists of four, new showers with hot and cold water available, rounding out the excellent sanitary facilities at Camp Celio. Gold Rush bandanas, hand blocked in black on yellow, are made and worn only by girls attending the Gold Rush.

In addition to the showers, several other improvements have been made. In Kalo during the winter an outdoor fire place was built of the country rock and initiated during Gold Rush by a popcorn party. Two roofed tables were also built. It is planned to have the Kalo girls cook their own breakfast and serve it in their camp.

On the water front a complete new deep water dock for diving and a boat dock have been added well as three new row boats and two Old Towne canoes. All the boats are named for water birds, the canoes having been christened the "Wild Goose" and the "Swallow."

In the field of nature study a great interest has been shown in the discovery of bird nests in the camp. The most notable find is a Cassin Vireo's nest with four babies hung low over the trail to Tree Top, tree houses of the camp director.

Sports enjoyed at Camp Celio include archery, badminton and horse back riding. Each camp group has its own badminton equipment. The other sports, although camp wide in scope, are under the supervision of special counselors. For use during the quiet periods of the day, a library is located in each camp. Books lent by the Oakland and Berkeley public libraries fill out these collections.

The Gold Rush session at Camp Celio closed with a council fire at which the campers were awarded the Gold Rush honor and the counselors received their special, orange ties. Gold Rush campers were Catherine Booth, Margaret Ann Bullock, Betty Cameron, Dorothy Cross, Gertrude Davis, Flavia Gallagher, Betty Lou Howard, Louise McClure, Molly Moser, Mary Miller, Catherine Mary Newhall, Wilella Raymond, Bernice Robertson, Rita Ryan, Jean Sherman, Marion Thiele, Cecile Trumpler, and Beverly Wickler.

Local Building

Building still continues in Nevada City and latest of note are:

The home of Mrs. Annie Godfrey is getting well under way and will be ready for occupancy before long.

Mrs. Annie Scheemer has just had a neat sleeping porch built, adding much to the comfort of her home.

The Von Dornum home on upper Boulder street, has the framework up and will soon be completed.

Cal Christensen is adding a new sleeping porch to his home on upper West Broad street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Fitch, of Gold Run, spent Saturday in Nevada City visiting her sister, Mrs. Edd Addington and husband.

WILL OF JUDGE NILON FILED FOR PROBATE

William T. Nilon petitioned that he be appointed administrator of the estate of his late father, Frank T. Nilon Tuesday, when the will was filed for probate. By the terms of the will, John C. Nilon, a deceased brother, Miss Alice Nilon and the widow, Mrs. Grace A. Nilon are devised and bequeathed the estate consisting of real and personal property valued at about $6,000.

W. A. Hooten, superintendent of the Oriental mine, of Alleghany, passed through Nevada City Tuesday enroute to the property, frim a business trip to the bay region.

BIG CREW WORKS ON TAHOE UKIAH

About 175 men are employed in Bear Valley on the work of completing the last stretch of the Tahoe-Ukiah highway leading into Emigrant Gap.

As the road has been realigned, the steep climb out of the valley to Emigrant Gap, will be eliminated. The road will run farther down the valley and come out on a new gradual grade.

Rock crushers are getting out rock which is being taken from the Sout Yuba river. A neat camp in Bear Valley is almost a little city. It will take practically all summer to complete the work.

JOSEPH W. DAY ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR COUNTY RECORDER

Joseph W. Day, well known resident of Nevada Township, has announced his candidacy for the office of County Recorder, a position which he believes himself capable of filling with credit to himself and to the best interests of those who have business in that office.

Mr. Day came to this county nearly 20 years ago and has resided here continuously with the exception of the period that he was serving his country during the world war. He was on the Siberian front and while he did not participate in actual fighting there, saw much hardship in that cold country.

He is a graduate of the College of Agriculture of the University of California at Berkeley and he has also taken a special bookkeeping course. He has been employed in a number of the mines in this district and has been held in high esteem by his employers and fellow workers.

During 1930 when the last census was taken, he was census enumerator in the south half of Grass Valley township and Bridgeport township and came in contact with many people from whom he hopes to receive support in his present candidacy.

He is a man of family, having a wife and two children. His residence is in the Gold Flat section, and he has taken an active interest in the activities of that district. At present Mr. Day is clerk of the Board of School Trustees in the Gold Flat school.

NON-SUIT GRANTED IN ACTION TO VOID LEASE

A non-suit was granted by Judge Tuttle in the Superior Court Wednesday in the case of Jesse R. Tautphaus vs. California Consolidated Mines Inc. The suit was brought to cancel a lease held by the mining company on certain properties in Willow Valley. It was alleged that the terms of the lease had not been fulfilled by the defendant. The company produced evidence to show that the terms had been complied with, and the motion for a non-suit was granted.

REV. BUCKNER RETURNED TO NEV. CITY PULPIT

Rev. H. H. Buckner, of the local Methodist church, who is attending a conference in Stockton, was again chosen to fill the pulpit in Nevada City. He also has San Juan, Downieville and Sierra City in his pastorate. Rev. A. L. Pratt was returned to the Methodist church in the Grass Valley district.

Between 60 and 70 members and families of the Ladies' Aid Society were present Wednesday afternoon for a delicious picnic lunch beside the pretty lake on the Day ranch. It proved a real reunion and a happy time was spent in visiting.

The Bible class, of the Methodist church, held an interesting meeting last evening.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—President Roosevelt's broad conception of reform in the country's social structure has now been given the country. In it, he has presented the embryonic propositions which he intends to submit to the congress that convenes in January, 1935. Everywhere around the capital city, I believe, it is accepted as a statement upon which he expects that Democratic representatives and senators will seek to be re-elected in the November elections.

Social Reform Program

Disregarding for a moment the views obtainable as to the merits of the projects which he laid down in his message to congress outlining his social reform program, I find that most leaders look upon the Roosevelt statement as one from which he can determine his future policy. It will work out this way, I am informed: if the voters elect a preponderance of Roosevelt supporters for the house and senate again this fall, the President will consider that the country approves of his plans. If, on the other hand, there should be a sharp loss of Democrats in the house, I am told that Mr. Roosevelt would be likely to consider that as a mandate to slow up somewhat on the program upon which he has embarked.

As I reported to you several weeks ago, Mr. Roosevelt has now rounded out the picture of recovery and reform as he conceives it to be necessary, or rather as he and his advisers think the course should be. At that time, I predicted he would find it opportune just before congress quit for the session to toss his ideas into the hopper for mastication during the summer months. It can now be said that he has elected to go into battle with the opposition without quarter, for his message made it clear he felt the critics had offered nothing as an alternative. He declared they were unable to present any plans for human happiness and that they proposed to go back to the "old order" which had broken down completely in the past.

The President asserted that he proposed to make the "security of the citizen and his family" the first consideration of government. And to accomplish that, he explained, it was necessary to toss aside many of the traditions and practices to which we long have adhered.

"People," he said, "want decent homes to live in; they want to locate them where they can engage in productive work; and they want some safeguard against misfortunes which cannot be wholly eliminated in this man-made world of ours."

Mr. Roosevelt's message was decidedly general in tone. He avoided specifications. But the general thoughts were certainly clear to all and sundry, and it is upon these general thoughts that the issues are to be drawn. Indeed, they have already been drawn.

So it cannot be doubted that throughout the coming campaigns, we will hear much of the New Deal's new social structure as presented by Mr. Roosevelt. The Roosevelt supporters will swear by all that is holy that it is the only road to happiness. Republicans and anti-Roosevelt spellbinders will shout all of the invectives that may be used to inform the country that it is headed for government ownership of everything, government management, destruction of property rights, etc.

Some observers here thought there might be some link between the delivery of the President's message at the particular time selected, and the threats of strikes. They professed to see a clever move by the Chief Executive to satisfy many citizens as to his intention to guarantee work and food throughout the future. I am in a position to say, however, that there was no connection between the unsettled labor situation and the time at which the message was delivered to congress. It was ready at that time and was sent along in regular course. If it has had, or is to have, any effect on the threats of strikes and the leaders in those movements, it will be wholly a coincidence.

No Link With Labor Disputes

The strikes have been bred of different causes than the things about which Mr. Roosevelt talked in his message. He is proposing such things as old age insurance, additional government money for loans to persons who want to buy homes, the transfer of those living in barren spots (insofar as jobs are concerned) to sections and communities where work is obtainable, and a general paternalism on the part of the national government. In other words, Mr. Roosevelt's plans contemplate a long range development and have no reference to NRA schemes, its codes or what have you. It does relate directly to the movements undertaken by the Agricultural Adjustment administration which have gone a long way—and it wants to go much farther—in regulating the production of farms and in controlling what farmers do with their land.

With reference to this phase, it can be said that Mr. Roosevelt is willing to abandon millions of acres of land and to have the people who own and live upon land that is worn out transferred to good land. It is a proposition that will involve the use of untold millions of dollars, and it is to be assumed that it will be money paid into the treasury by taxpayers, supplied the transferred peoples on long-time credit. I have not learned yet how the added production resulting from these transfers will be handled, but it certainly will add to the surplus about which the Agricultural Adjustment administration has been complaining.

Now that we have a new law that provides the federal government with authority to control the exchanges where stocks and bonds are sold, as well as a law by which the government controls the issuance and sale of such securities, it seems to be a good time for examination of the new agency that is going to run that show. It may seem a far cry from the stock exchange of Wall Street to the little country school house, but this new law is so far-reaching in its effect and in its scope of jurisdiction that it touches that little country school and the lives of all of us. I judge from the expressions I have picked up that passage of the exchange control law has brought us to a turning point in the matter of what we do with the extra few dollars that we can save and invest with expectation of getting a return of interest.

Touches All Our Lives

The consensus seems to be that whether anything is accomplished under the combination control of security issues and stock exchange will depend entirely on administration of the laws. That is to say, if good is to come, there must be reasonable interpretation of the provision of those laws, according to the general view of those directly affected. The stock exchange control law underwent a major operation in congress from the manner in which the professors of the brain trust had drawn it, originally. Until those objectionable features were eliminated, there was a battle royal in house and senate. Since the features omitted were deemed too radical by congress, it is to be assumed there was merit in the claims of brokers and investors in stocks that the bill would have dammed up money that otherwise could have been put to work and used by commerce and industry which necessarily has to operate to a great extent on borrowed funds, credit.

But I hear many expressions around here that there is still a serious problem ahead in the matter of keeping the channels open for investment funds. It is asserted by many that "the professorial type of mind" should not be chosen to serve as members of the five-man commission that is set up to rule this phase of commerce. I think no one can deny that there have been abuses of confidence, trickery and other sharp practices extant in stock exchange operations. The new laws are supposed to cure them, and I believe they will do so. Yet, the thought held by some of the real authorities is that radical administration of the laws can damage the field of finance beyond measure. Selection of men for the jobs who would exercise their authority with restraint as well as with intelligence was imperative from the start, or else I am convinced the whole country would suffer because there could be no distribution of the securities. Bonds on the little country school house would be difficult to sell, and mortgage lenders, who sell bonds against those mortgages, would be against a wall.

Numerous Democrats continued right up to the dying gasp of the Seventy-third congress to seek political pie for their constituents. They are still pie hungry now, insofar as one attempted raid on government jobs is concerned. A broad jump was attempted in the house to place several hundred extra workers in the general accounting office for the purpose of auditing the expenditures of the several dozen Roosevelt agencies that are denominated by their critics as the "alphabetical soup." Up to this time, J. R. McCarl, the comptroller general of the United States, has had little chance to find out what the alphabetical agencies have been doing with the vast sums appropriated for them or allocated them by the President from the various huge appropriations. He has to, and does, pass on the expenditures of the regularly established government agencies, but none of the new ones were put under his watchful eye.

Still Pie Hungry

Mr. Roosevelt ordered the audit. To do the job, however, required additional help for Mr. McCarl, and about $1,000,000 was included in a deficiency appropriation bill. The pie-hunters saw a fine chance, and they never overlook any chance. So they slipped a line into the appropriation bill that said the extra workers were to be chosen without regard for the civil service. What a huge piece of pie, in fact, many pieces of pie!

But something happened to the well-laid plan. Somewhere the language got changed to read that the comptroller general "may appoint" the extra workers without regard for the civil service instead of the command that he "shall appoint." And, in this case, the change is of vast importance to maintenance of the civil service as a government method of employment.

Here's to a Smart Summer Wardrobe

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TURN to the east or turn to the west or turn to the spot you love best where to tarry a while in the good old summertime. Unless your wardrobe be well stocked with timely and practical as well as chic and pretty apparel your vacation is apt to count nil in the way of uplifting joy and satisfaction. N'est ce pas?

Not that one necessarily must have an extravagant collection of lovely frocks and sportsy dresses and stunning hats and intriguing wraps and flattering accessories, for a few carefully chosen outfits count for far more than a superabundance of helter-skelter ill-advised fashions.

Reducing the formula for smart vacation clothes to its simplest, firstly a tailored-to-perfection ensemble for general daytime wear; secondly, a casual frock with swanky details for active sports wear, and thirdly, a sheer and lovely formal of alluringly feminine charm ought to go a far way toward helping start one's summer vacation style program in the right direction. The trio of stunning fashions shown here have been selected with this thought in mind.

Beginning with the tailored ensemble centered in the group, we feel we can recommend it as having all the necessary attributes to render it eligible for election as a fashion-supreme for general daytime wear. With all its summery daintiness when it comes to actual hard wear and tear it is a sturdy little affair designed to give real service. One of several reasons why you can depend upon it is that it is made of a soft yet firm Irish linen which is everfast when it comes to color, is easily washable and best of all it is uncrushable which counts a lot when one is on the go from morning to night. The dress is natural color with a yoke of linen strips in contrasting high shades joined with hand-fagoting. It is completed by a meticulously tailored three-quarter coat which, when removed, reveals a gay bodice top with mere suggestions for sleeves—really quite a fetching gown for informal afternoon wear.

The intriguing frock to the left in the group has all the makings of a winner whether it plays in a game of fashion or tennis or golf. It is a costume warranted to start the day off joyously, so don it first thing in the morning. Its practicability is equaled by its smartness expressed not only in the voguish checked Irish linen which fashions it, but in such arresting details as a row of big buttons traveling down the back of the skirt, when you would expect them to be at the front. The low cut back is not only a style feature but it is an invitation to the sun to send its health rays hither.

Comes at the close of a "perfect day in June" and during the months following, the glamorous shades of night when one would dance the magic hours away or make conquest of hearts, well here is the gown that will do it for you—to the right in the picture. It is made of a sheer black printed marquisette which makes you look beautiful whether you are or not. A velvet girdle encircles the waist and the slip underneath is of black taffeta so that it "sounds like music when she moves." It's amazing to what lengths party frocks and formals are going this season reaching even unto the floor and then some.

SCOTCH PLAID NOW SEEN AT BEACHES

Now that the influence of practically every other nation has been seen in beach wear, along comes the Scotch trend, which presents as the last word in resort fashions a brief Scotch plaid skirt to wear over your swim suit.

And if you're so minded you may have a plaid sun hat or beret to match. Vivid plaid belts and shoulder straps also are blossoming out on some of the newest bathing suits, otherwise in solid colors.

Another beach costume goes definitely Turkish with a so-called skirt reaching to the middle of the calf, suggesting the sultan's trousers. Bloused fullness in front is caught at the hemline, and there are slits bound in vivid cotton braid, for the legs. The garment is really trousers, but looks like a skirt, or vice versa.

Sandals for Summer Wear Will Be a Riot of Color

Sandals, and more sandals for summer feet! From the cool meshed affairs to the perforated kidskin straps you can't ignore them. Bright colors are worn for street, as well as evening and beach and sports sandals are a blazing riot of color. All white footwear is the smartest footnote. Street models, afternoon, and evening, whatever you slip on your feet, the all white wins.

Cotton Tweed

A cotton tweed coat is something to keep in mind for summer wardrobes. The new ones, which look surprisingly like woolens, have coarse yarns in white, giving a nubby effect against colored grounds.

Fine Feathers

Feathers are an outstanding trim for evening gowns. Ostrich is the favorite and is seen in many versions, forming capes or shoulder accents.

SAILOR FASHION

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Sailor themes is news of high importance in connection with fashions for youngsters and juniors. Incidentally we might mention that it is also ultra chic for grown-up's costumes to take on nautical details, especially wide sailor collars in versatile interpretations. But to the subject before us—this cunning child in her modish little frock of white Irish linen which looks so smartly nautical with its sailor collar and sleeve bands of blue and its cord-laced fastening. Here we see the descendant of the sailor dresses which were the pride of the well dressed child in years gone by.

Coolie Coats

Coolie coats in pastel flannel are very smart, for street wear with dark dresses. The finger-tip length is favored and the sleeves are long and full.

In a Garden Chair

By ANNE CAMPBELL

I HEAR the sea, the tumbling sea,
And smell the spray in the clean salt air.
The gulls are sailing close to me.
The sky is blue, the horizon fair—
And I have not moved from my garden chair!

The mountains rise to snowy heights.
I climb the trail, and the way is hard.
My soul moves on to new delights.
I glimpse high heaven! I am not barred
From beauty, though held to my own back yard.

On wings of fancy I may go
To foreign countries and revel there.
Old sights are sweet in memory's glow,
And loveliness I may never share
Is mine, as I dream in a garden chair!

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

PETER LEARNS MORE ABOUT THE VIREOS

"SPEAKING of the Vireos, Redeye seems to be the only member of his family around here," remarked Peter.

"Listen!" commanded Jenny Wren. "Listen! Don't you hear that warbling song way over there in the Big Elm in front of Farmer Brown's house where Goldy the Oriole has his nest?"

Peter listened. At first he didn't hear it, and as usual Jenny Wren made fun of him for having such big ears and not being able to make better use of them. Presently he did hear that song. The voice was not unlike that of Redeye, but the song was smoother, more continuous and sweeter. Peter's face lighted up. "I hear him," he cried.

"That's Redeye's cousin, the Warbling Vireo," said Jenny. "He's a better singer than Redeye, and just as fond of hearing his own voice. He sings from the time jolly Mr. Sun gets up in the morning until he goes to bed at night. He sings when it is so hot that the rest of us are glad to keep still for comfort's sake. I don't know of anybody more fond of the treetops than he is. He doesn't seem to care anything about the Old Orchard, but stays over in those big trees along the road. Over in that Big Elm he's got a nest as high up as Goldy the Oriole's. I haven't seen it myself, but Goldy told me about it. Why anyone so small should want to live so high up in the world I don't know, any more than I know why anyone wants to live anywhere but in the Old Orchard."

"That's Redeye's Cousin, the Warbling Vireo," Said Jenny.

"Somehow, I don't remember just what Warbler looks like," Peter confessed.

"He looks a lot like his cousin Redeye," replied Jenny. "His coat is a duller olive-green, and underneath he is a little yellowish instead of being white. Of course he doesn't have red eyes, and he is a little smaller than Redeye. The whole family looks pretty much alike anyway."

"You said something then, Jenny Wren," declared Peter. "They get me all mixed up. If only some of them had some bright colors it would be easier to tell them apart."

"One has," replied Jenny. "He has a bright yellow throat and breast and is called Yellow-Throated Vireo. There isn't the least chance of mistaking him."

"Is he a singer, too?" asked Peter.

"Of course," replied Jenny. "Every one of that blessed family loves the sound of his own voice. It's a family trait. A good thing is good, but more than enough of a good thing is too much. That applies to gossiping just as much as to singing, and I've wasted more time on you than I've any business to. Now hop along, Peter, and don't bother me any more today."

Peter hopped.

QUESTION BOX

By ED WYNN . . .
The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a boy sixteen years old and I have an ambition. I want to do something startling. Something that is bound to cause a commotion. What do you suggest?

Truly yours,
I. DEALIST.

Answer—Something that will startle people? Very simple. Go to a ballroom during a dance on a hot summer's night and throw about ten eggs in the electric fans.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

A friend of mine said that he knew a man that was in the hospital having splinters taken out of his tongue. Could that be true? If so, how do you account for splinters in a man's tongue?

Truly yours,
ANG. TIOUS.

Answer—That is probably true. It most likely happened this way: The man was very stingy. He had just paid for a drink and it spilt on the floor. See what I mean?

Dear Mr. Wynn:

Do you think it is right for men to work on Sunday, thereby breaking the Sabbath?

Truly yours,
E. VANGELIST.

Answer—I do in some cases. For instance, if it's a question which one is "broke," the man or the Sabbath, I say the Sabbath.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

What is meant by "A Man of Promise?"

Yours truly,
SID. KNEE.

Answer—A man of PROMISE is a chap who borrows money and never pays it back.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a boy eight years old. We have just started physiology in school. Tomorrow I must tell the teacher all about "The Five Senses." Please tell me what are the five senses?

Yours truly,
I. BALL.

Answer—The five "centses," my child, are nickels."

Beginning of Cabinet Offices

Departments of State, War, Post Office, Treasury and the office of the attorney general were established with the Constitution. This latter office was officially changed to the Department of Justice in 1870. Willows Produce Heavy Water

The weeping willow tree produces heavy water. The tree's roots draw in ordinary water. In the course of growth the tree breaks this water in its hydrogen and oxygen atoms.

SAUCES FOR ICE CREAMS

ONE would think of ice cream in itself as being wholesome, toothsome and satisfying, plain as it is; but the addition of a zippy sauce which is easily prepared at home makes the serving an added way of expressing the real spirit of hospitality, when one wishes to offer something more than commonplace refreshment.

A few chopped nuts sprinkled over plain vanilla ice cream and topped with a spoonful of whipped cream and a maraschino cherry makes a most satifying sundae.

The careless preparation of a sauce to serve on or with any dish is always a convincing proof of the indifference paid to good cooking. To make a good sauce requires good taste, patience and judgment. To be good it must fit the disn where it is served—that is, be appropriate to it, smooth, artfully flavored and of the right consistency.

The opportunity to add one's individuality to a dish is well expressed in sauces served.

Maple Pecan Sauce.

Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and one-fourth of a cupful of water, three tablespoonfuls of corn sirup and cook to a stage before the soft ball when tested in water. Remove from the fire, add one-fourth of a cupful of cream, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of mapleine, one-half cupful of pecans chopped. This makes six servings.

Chocolate Sauce.

Melt three squares of chocolate over hot water, add one-fourth cupful of water and stir until smooth; now add one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of corn sirup and boil to the very soft ball stage, or 234 degrees. Remove from the fire, add one cupful of cream and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat until smooth. This makes two and one-half cupfuls of sauce. Cut eight marshmallows into small pieces. Boil one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of water to a heavy sirup. Whip two egg whites, add the marshmallows and beat well. Flavor with any desired flavoring.

Boys Build a Hydrofoil Speedboat

THIS speedboat, radical in design and expected to develop double the speed of present water craft of the same power, was completed by pupils of Rocky River High school in Cleveland, Ohio. The boat, powered with a standard outboard motor, is the first of its kind to be built upon the hydrofoil principle developed by Dr. Oscar G. Tietjens, nationally known research engineer. Every detail of the 15-foot craft was worked out by the students and their instructor, A. K. Skromp. The hydrofoil consists of a plane suspended underneath the boat which cuts through the water as the boat gathers speed and reduces the fluid resistance to a minimum.
